Tuesday, May 4, 2010 At the Crossroads I had an interesting conversation with a colleague the other day. He has been at MedImmune for the past 7 years and is now a Product Manager for Oncology. While we were discussing the current trends in Healthcare and the economy, he shared with me his views on how he sees our career path. My colleague spoke about the three milestones he reached in his career at MedImmune and about how he felt about the job market in Singapore. He mentioned how he had been a US citizen for two years before coming to Singapore and had settled into the country quite comfortably. He also described his job opportunities here in Singapore as "really good" and "competitive", which left him feeling quite optimistic. After his first 2 years here, he had been recruited to MedImmune as a Product Manager for Oncology. In this role, he has been able to gain a lot of experience and exposure with his team, and has also been able to help shape the Oncology products that the company has developed. And for the last two years, he has been promoted to a senior Product
